

Karrot

Start a group, become a community

Overview

- What is Karrot actually good for?
- How does it work beyond foodsaving groups and for more general community organising?
- How is it different from other tools?

A little history

Ooops... another group with 9 members.
So this one actually also belongs to the bunch of second biggest groups... ^^

Important

- sharing is caring
- lamâsch 'em all!
- i love markdown
- it's working (:

Pathway to general purpose use

- 2017 discussions IT IS NOT (only) ABOUT A SOFTWARE. It is a lot about COMMUNITY-BUILDING
- 2018 more discussions fridge cleaning? self-assigning tasks in the more general collective work
- 2019 yet more discussions I like the motto of "one level more generic"
- 2020 yay! (pickups → activities, stores → places)
- ... activity types, place types (sort of), ... group templates?

Core

Who, what, where, when ...

... and how ...

Start a group, become a community

Karrot is a free and open-source tool for grassroots initiatives and groups of people that want to coordinate face-to-face activities on a local, autonomous and voluntary basis.

It is designed in ways to enable community-building and support a more transparent, democratic and participatory governance of your group.

Community organising

... coming soon some time

- Community agreements
- Making decisions and resolving conflicts
- Roles and responsibilities
- Beyond the group: doors not walls
